

Ed F.

I grew up in Pawtucket, Rhode Island. I earned my B.A. in Biology at Brown University, then my Ph.D. in Biophysics and Theoretical Biology at the University of Chicago. I ran on the track team and participated in bridge and chess. I was married for over 23 years before my wife died. I have one son born in 1993 and another son born in 1995. I came to the Chicago area to obtain my Ph.D. and I started square dancing when we became empty nesters. I work in computer support, but have published articles and a book regarding prostate cancer, breast cancer, and Alzheimer's disease. I am currently in a wonderful relationship that was brokered by my wife before she died.
